

Business (BTEC)

Exam Board: Pearson Edexcel

The study of BTEC National Award in Business will suit those students who enjoy practical work with a vocational context. It will introduce candidates to some of the skills, technical knowledge and understanding associated with Business at A Level as well as equipping them with some of the skills they will need to be successful in the workplace or in further education or training. The study programme places a greater emphasis on the acquisition of a full range of skills through the study of realistic business-based vocational contexts, including:

Personal organisation and time-management; written and oral presentation skills; personal skills such as initiative, creativity and perseverance; interpersonal skills such as team-working, leadership and discussion; and cognitive skills such as problem solving, planning and decision making.

The BTEC National in Business provide a wide range of practical assessments that will now include written externally examined tests and project work alongside the traditional school-set assignments.

The BTEC National in Business is available in two options, the Extended Certificate and Diploma. Both are studied over a two year period

Frequently asked questions

How does the BTEC National in Business qualification work in practice?

The course is split into 4 units (Extended Certificate) or 8 units (Diploma) studied over a 2 year period. There will be both internally and externally assessed units.

What GCSE grades do I need for BTEC National in Business?

It is not critical that you have previously studied GCSE Business Studies; however, you must have at least 5 GCSEs at grade 5 and above.

What skills do I need to do well?

In my opinion there are a number of qualities that are of particular importance in doing well when undertaking a BTEC National in Business course, these are:

The ability to set and meet coursework deadlines

The ability to enthusiastically research topics independently of arranged lessons

The enjoyment of practical work and external trips and visits

Is there lots of practical work?

We will try to make the course as close to the real world of business as we can so we will look to incorporate guest speakers and site-visits into the programme so that students can experience, at first hand, the reality and challenges of running a business.

What type of text books will I need?

The main text book is specifically designed by the exam board. For extra reading we would recommend that all Business students be prepared to undertake investigations using quality newspapers such as the Times, Sunday Times or Financial Times. Furthermore, there are many TV and radio programmes and web-sites such as www.bized.ac.uk that cover, in depth, the topics that we will be studying in the units.

What benefits will studying Business bring in the future, particularly if I'm thinking of doing a Business related subject at university?

The main advantages are:

- The high practical element of the course and the fact that most homework is focused on completing coursework may be a relief from essay writing or lots of note making from text books.
- You can excel by using cross over skills from other subjects. If you are good at Mathematics, English, Geography, Science or ICT - you will enjoy the challenge of BTEC National in Business.
- It equips students with some of the essential skills to be successful in the world of work either in a managerial role or when being managed.
- It will help you to achieve a competitive advantage in obtaining an interesting and challenging job should you not wish to continue onto further education.
- It will provide practical help if, at some time in the future, you plan to set up your own business venture.
